

No More Red 2023

Now into its second year, the No More Red campaign will be continuing to raise awareness of knife crime in London, and working to provide safe spaces for young people to engage with their local communities.

As part of the campaign, Community Centres across the Octopus Network are engaging young people to bring about the change they want to see, by volunteering. As a Network of Community Centres, all running a range of activities, there are many volunteering opportunities available. We want young people to work on projects they are passionate about, so we'll match the interests you have with the opportunities available across the Network.
